

INTRODUCTION

(Ask me for a customized introduction)

Sue Miller stands only 5 feet 4 inches tall, but she packs a “punch of a message” to audiences across America.

She thinks her husband is her best friend and her two daughters are perfect.

She was the University of Missouri’s campus icon, Miss Mizzou, but she won’t tell us when!

She’s a management consultant and courseware author that specializes in helping individuals maximize their performance and enjoy their work.

She began her own training company in 1994 after managing in two Fortune 500 corporations.

She says, “I like to think of myself as – not as a motivational SPEAKER; but rather as a motivational TEACHER. I like to think that I’ve been able to help create some new skills and new mindsets after I leave, along with some laughter and smiles.”

Our speaker lives with authenticity the messages she delivers. They come from her heart as she shares experiences her audiences identify with. She inspires as she teaches and as she speaks.

Now all the way from the fastest growing city in Texas....the lady who speaks from the heart about incredibly essential issues....

.....Please welcome Sue Miller!
